POETRY.

The Human Heart.

BY FINLEY JOHNSON.

There is no heart so steep'd in sin,
Within a world like this,
But what can find some memories
To fill its depths with bliss
To shed abroad the light of love
Throughout its deepest cell,
To find within its chambers wide
A place for love to dwell.

As flowers scent the evening air
With sweet and fresh perfume;
As they expand before the sun,
And in their beauty bloom,
So in the heart, however rude,
The light of love still gleans;
And by its rays gives peace to all
Beneath its sunny beams.

There is no heart however bowed
By sorrow's crushing weight,
But what has felt within this life
A far more happy state;
And which has memories of the past
To love and call its own;
The joys of which they would not change,
To fill a monarch's throne.

Then there's no heart however steeped
Within the depths of sin;
But what has some secure retreat
For mercy's entrance in—
Some joys to take the sting away
From sorrow's gloomy hours;
As the bright sun the dew does take
From off the early flowers.

A slow Steamboat.

According to the Cincinnatti Commercial, there was once a steamboat coming up the Mississippi on a dark night, and the captain, according to "time-honored usage," was playing cards in the social hall. The mate stepped in:

"Captain, out of wood—not enough left to make the water hot enough to shave with."

"Ring the bell," replied the captain. "Show a light, and scare some up along the shore."

The mate went out, and the captain went on with the game. In a few moments the mate returned:

"Found a yard, sir,"

The captain left the table and went out.

"How do you sell your wood?" shouted the captain, to the people at the yard.

"Two and a half."

"Too much," said the captain.—"However, take a cord or two, and look further."

A couple of cords were taken, the game resumed in the social hall, and the boat went on.

A half hour elapsed, when the mate again appeared:

"Out of wood, sir."

"Bell and light—my dear."

The orders were obeyed, and the mate again announced a wood-yard. The captain went out.

"What's the price of wood?"

"Two and a half."

"Too high, but will take a couple of cords till we can do better."

As before, a couple of cords were taken in, and not twenty minutes elapsed before the mate again appeared.

"Out of wood, sir."

"Ring the bell."

"Better take more this time."

"Show a light."

"It's done, sir."

In a few minutes a wood-yard was again rung up, and the steamer B——— went in.

"How do you sell your wood?"

"Two and a half."

"Two and a half be d—d!" cried the captain.

"Well, captain," answered the woodman, "we will put it to you this time at two and a quarter, as this makes the third time you have wooded with us to-night"

The captain had nothing to say, but took the wood and got quickly out of that stiff current, which the boat was unable to stem.

The B——— was so solemnly slow, that the captain himself used to say that she must have been intended for a hearse. She is the steamboat which the newspapers once made the trip from New Orleans to Louisville in six days and—four weeks.

A COMPROMISE.—A few days since an old toper died suddenly. The coroner, in consequence, held an inquest, listened to the testimony of the surgeon, and suggested the verdict, "Water on the brain," when a juror rose to object.—"Mr. Coroner," said he, "I have known the deceased for ten mortal years, and I know he never seed a sober moment all that time. To say that such a man can die with water on the brain is therefore all nonsense. It can't be done. 'Cause why?—he never took any into his system.' The true verdict, Mr. Coroner, should be, 'Gin, rum or brandy on the brain,' but as I can't get such a verdict, I am willing to split the difference—compromise—and bring in a verdict as follows: 'Died from the effects of brandy and water on the brain.'" The verdict, eventually, was so returned.

REMARKABLE AFFAIR IN ENGLAND—A LAWYER VICTIMIZED BY A FEMALE ADVENTURER.—There resides at present in the West End of the British capital a young lawyer, who has every reason to be a miserable man, and no reason to place any confidence in womankind.—The circumstances that brought him to this lamentable state are as follows: He, a happy and penniless bachelor, was sitting in his office one day, a few months ago, when a knock at his door aroused him from a pleasant dream of future clients, and eagerly sprang from his chair to admit a female, whose face was veiled, but whose rich attire set off a form of surpassing symetry. On taking a seat, she raised the odious veil, and disclosed the blushing face of a very handsome young lady. The briefless barrister was "smitten" instanter, and asked her business in a very feeling and gentlemanly manner. The attractive female melodiously affirmed, that she was at present engaged in a fashionable millinery establishment, but would not be there were it not for the barbarity of an avaricious mother, living on a beautiful estate, known as "The Lake," near Barnstaple, in North Devonshire. This aristocratic maternal had control of her (the attractive female's) fortune of £1,500, but would not allow her £20 a month, which she thought was very hard. After this explanation, she displayed her deeds, etc., for the further information of the young barrister, and he kindly condoled with her on her misfortunes. At the conclusion of an interview unnecessarily long, he desired her to call again, and went back to his chair, a doomed man. The fascinater, who gave her name as Miss Bradbury, called repeatedly after that, and the lawyer returned her calls, until they finally agreed that they loved each other very much, and might as well make the cause of Bradbury vs. Bradbury a common one. In short, they got married. Congratulating himself on his acquisition of a very pretty wife, with a very snug little fortune in futuro, the lawyer hugely enjoyed the honeymoon, without once referring to that £1,500; but as he came down from the first flights of connubial bliss to the stern realities of married life, he began to think that his wife's Barnstaple property ought to be attended to, and intimated as much to her. The young wife laughed at first, then remonstrated, and then went into hysterics, just as her husband went off to North Devon. Feeling unpleasantly suspicious, the barrister went to Barnstable, where he commenced making inquiries for Mrs. Bradbury, of "The Lake." Now, Lake is the name of a small village, about one mile from Barnstaple; but no one could tell him where "Mrs. Bradbury" was to be found, and he set off for the village, with a vague apprehension of something wrong. The Lakers could give him no satisfaction at first, but finally remembered that a notorious woman visited them last summer, and represented herself to be the wife of a commercial traveler named Bradbury, then residing in London. They also affirmed that she was the daughter of a woman named Collins, living in a very mean house, in a back street of the village. Of course, this information made the poor barrister still more unhappy; but there might be some mistake, after all, and it was with some hope that he repaired to the hovel of Mrs. Colins. The old lady received him affably, and stated that her daughter had indeed married Mr. Bradbury, a commercial traveler. Horrified at this intelligence, the husband asked her if she had a marriage certificate?—to which she replied in the affirmative, but sullenly refused to show it, inquiring: "What is it to you?" Quite satisfied that he had been terribly victimized by a female sharper, the luckless barrister started immediately for his home in London, resolved to order the adventuress to leave his house immediately, as he had discovered that she was herself Mrs. Bradbury, and an unprincipled woman. However, the wife got wind of the expose before her husband arrived, and, when he entered her room, he found her safely ensconded in bed, declaring that she would not be removed, and threatening self-destruction with a razor if any one attempted to disturb her. Finding her so determined, the barrister resolved to seek the aid of the law; and several legal gentlemen of Barnstasle are now busily endeavoring to get him safely out of his matrimonial scrape.

AN Irish tramp called for relief at St. Peter's Hospital, Bristol, and complained of being ill, when the doctor gave him an order for some medicine. When he presented the order, and heard what it provided, Pat said he did not want it. The nurse declared that he did, for the doctor said so. "Arah, whist," was the reply; "I know better than the doctor! 'Tisn't physic I want at all, but sausages and tay!"

Strife, like fire, rage the more fiercely the more they are stirred.

EFFECTS OF HEAT UPON MEAT.—Prof. Johnston, in his Chemistry of Common Life, says that a well cooked piece of meat should be full of its own juice or natural gravy. In roasting, therefore, it should be exposed to a quick fire, that the external surface may be made to contract at once and the albumen to coagulate before the juice has had time to escape from within. The same observations apply to boiling; when a piece of beef or mutton is plunged in boiling water, the outer part contracts, the albumen which is near the surface coagulates, and the internal juice is prevented either from being diluted or weakened by the admission of water among it. When cut up, therefore, the meat yields much gravy, and is righ in flavor. Hence, a beefsteak or mutton chop is done quickly, and over a quick fire, that the natural juices may be retained. On the other hand, if the meat be done over a slow fire, its pores remain open, the juice continues to flow from within as it has dried from the surface, and the flesh pines and becomes dry, hard, and unsavory. Or if it be put in cold and tepid water, which is afterwards brought to a boil, much of the albumen is extracted before it coagulates, the natural juices for the most part flow out, and the meat is nearly tasteless. Hence to prepare good boiled meat it should at once be put into water already brought to a boil. But to make beef tea, mutton broth, and other beef soups, the flesh should be put in cold water, and this afterward very slowly warmed, and finally boiled. The advantage derived from simmering—a term no unfrequent in coockery books—depends very much upon the effects of a slow boiling, as above explained.

PERMANENT INVESTMETS.—Investing in champagne at $2 a bottle—an acre of good government land costs $1 25.

Investing in tobacco and cigars, daily, one year, $50—seven barrels of good flour cost $49.

Investing in "drinks" one year, $100—$100 will pay for ten daily and fifteen monthly periodicals.

Investing in theatrical amusements one year, $200—$200 will purchase an excellent library.

Investing in a fat horse, $500—400 acres of good wild land costs $500.

Investing in a yatch, including bettings and drinkings for a season, $5,000—$5,000 will buy a good improved country farm.

Panics, hard times, loss of time, red faces, bad temper, poor health, ruin of character, misery, starvation, death, and a terrible future, may be avoided by looking the above square in the face.

A majority of fancies, in making calculations for the future, watch the importations, exports of specie, the ups and downs of stocks, and the movements of the Wall street Bulls and Bears. All that is very well, but let them at the same time estimate the loss of gold in the maelstrom of extravagance.

"AM I NOT THINE ASS?"—Once two Ministers of the Gospel were conversing on extemporaneous preaching.

"Well," said the old divine (waxing warm,) "you are ruining yourself by writing your sermons and reading them off. Your congregation cannot become interested in your preaching, and if you were called upon to preach unexpectedly, unless you could get hold of an old sermon, you would be completely confused."

The young divine used all his eloquence, but in vain, to convince the old gentleman that the written sermon expressed his own thoughts and feelings, and if called upon could preach extemporaneously.

"As we are of the same faith," said the young minister, "suppose you try me next Sabbath morning. On ascending the pulpit you can hand me a text from any part of the Bible, and I will convince you that I can preach without having looked at the text before I stood up. Likewise, I must be allowed the same privilege with you, and see who will make the best of it."

The idea seemed to delight the old gentleman, and it was immediately agreed upon.

The following Sabbath, on mounting the pulpit, his senior brother handed him a slip of paper, on which was written: "And the ass opened his mouth and spake;" from which he preached a glorious sermon, charming the attention of the delighted hearers, and charming his old friend with his eloquence.

In the afternoon the young brother, who was sitting below the pulpit handed his slip. After rising and opening the Bible, the old man looked anxiously around—"Am I not thine ass?" Pausing a few minutes he ran his finger through his hair, straightened his collar, blew his nose like the last trumpet, and he read aloug: "Am I not thine ass?" Another pause, in which a deadly silence reigned. After reading a third time—"Am I not thine ass?" he looked over the pulpit at his friend, and in a doleful voice said: "I think I am, brother."

BIRDS have often seemed to me like the messengers from earth to heaven—charged with the homage and gratitude of nature, and gifted with the most eloquent of created voices to fulfill their mission.

A Mr. George Sharp, commonly called by his friends G. Sharp, looking rather dull one evening, in company, a friend observed: "G. Sharp was in rather a low key." "Oh," replied a young lady, "any one knows that G. Sharp is A flat."

A wag was once heard to say, that the only difference between the Southern and Northern people is, those in the South never sell anything they can eat, while those of the North never eat anything they can sell.

As an illustration of the "ruling passion," it is related of a lady out West, who was buried under the wreck of a railroad smash-up, whose first inquiry, upon being rescued, was: "Is my bonnot safe?"

WOUNDS, healed when the body is in health, sometimes break out again in sickness; but evil passions and propensities, that seem cured in sickness, often break out afresh in health.

A bill is pending in one of our Western Legislatures, to empower women to make contracts. They should by all means, be authorized to contract—they have been expanding too much.

A person, speaking of a drink he once had occasion to indulge in, says he could not tell whether it was brandy or a torch-light procession that was going down his throat.

It is said that a lady, on putting on her corsets, is like a man who drinks to drown his grief, because, in so-lacing herself, she is getting tight.

A punning youngster, who asked his father, at the theater, "if that wasn't a bandbox where the musicians sat?" was cut off from ginger snaps.

The name of "Eve," according to Buxtorf's Hebrew Lexicon, is derived from a root, which signifies "to talk."

When is a lover like a tailor?—When he presses his suit.

Did any one ever see the umbrella again which he had lent for just "five minutes?"

An excuse is worse and more terrible than a lie; for an excuse is a lie guarded. —Pope.

Why is anything reconsidered accounted "profitable?"—Because it is considered a-gain.

There is no objection to broils in a house, so that they only emanate from the kitchen.

A truly grateful heart may not be able to tell its gratitude, but it can feel, and love, and act.

It may sound like a paradox, yet the breaking of both an army's wings is a pretty sure way to make it fly.

The reason why whales frequent the Arctic seas is probably because the supply the "northern lights" with oil.

"That's the rock on which we split," said Charley to his wife when she asked him to rock the cradle.

Most interesting companions—Girls in their gigglehood, and boys in their boobyhood.

IT may seem a paradox, but it is nevertheless truth, that, hit a man upon whatever part of the body you will, the blow is sure to go against his stomach.

AN odd sort of genius, having stepped into a mill, was looking with apparent astonishment at the movement of the machinery, when the miller, thinking to quiz him, ashed him if he had heard the news?—"Not's I know on," said he; "Why," replied the miller, "they say the devil's dead." "By jings," said Johnathan, "is he? who tends the mill?"

"IT IS ALL THE SAME."—Cartouche, the French robber, was once requested by a young man to be engaged in his band. "Where have you served?" asked Cartouche.—"Two years with an attorney, and six months with an inspector of police."—"Well," answered the chief, "that whole time shall be reckoned as if you had served in my troop."

AN Irish clergyman having gone to visit the portraits of the Scottish kings in Holyrood house, observed one of the monarchs of a very youthful appearance, while his son was depicted with a long beard, and wore the traits of extreme old age. "Sancta Maria!" exclaimed the good Hibernian, "is it possible that this gentleman was an old man when his father was born!"

THE

KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1860.

Our Mails—To Our Legislators.

Our Mail facilities are lamentably defective and inconvenient. This portion of the State gets a mail only once a week. Why is it so? Would it not pay to get up a private express for the accomodation of the people on the Sacramento river, up through this and Colusi counties to Tehama?

These are questions that are just now agitating the minds and engaging the serious attention of many of the people "in these parts."

We wonder if other portions of the State are as poorly provided for, by the Post Office Department, as this is. If they are, we would suggest that our legislators might make themselves useful by calling the attention of the General Government to the fact, either by resolution or memorial.

We believe that if our Mail system is not mended, and that pretty soon, that there will have to be gotten up some other plan for our convenience. A private express from Sacramento City to Colusi, via Fremont, Knight's Landing, Thomas' Ferry, Eddy's aud some other point still nearer Colusi; running daily to and from each place would pay a large per centage we have no doubt.

We hope some enterprising man will think on the subject and put on a line forthwith.

A moments reflection, by any one at all, in the least acquainted with the line would suffice to convince him of its feasibility and utility.

But being apprehensive that other portions of the State may be as much in need of mail service as ourselves (we are not at all selfish in this matter) and not possess like advantages for a private express, we will again call attention of our legislators to the subject, believing they will consider the subject and endeavor to apply the remedy as far as in them lies the power.

Daily Overland Mail.

There has been a good deal spoken and written upon the subject of the Overland Mail. Upon this theme have various theories and hypotheses been constructed, some of which are more remarkable for the boldness of their conception than for their feasibility. The idea of of sending the Overland Mail from St. Louis, via Springfield, on the Southern route, as it is called, over the arid stirile desterts of Southern New Mexico and Southern California to San Francisco, in preference to sending it via the South Pass, was as foolish as it was unnecessarily called for and expensive, and must have had its origin in the musty brain of some old fogy, just on the eve of irretrievable imbecility; or in the heart of one of California's worst foes. Had Government spent the money in a just, judicious, and economical manner that has been appropriated for the OVERLAND MAIL, by selecting the Middle or South Pass route, there is no doubt but that we would now have a daily, instead of a weekly mail!

There are some who advocate the policy of several Overland Mail lines, contending that they would encourage emigration from the old States and settle up the country of the great plains, wherever sufficiently inviting for the convenience and happiness of Man.

We have our doubts of that policy. We believe if Government would locate the line on the Middle route, and make it a daily line, by putting enough of stages on it, that emigration would be much more encouraged and fostered than if a dozen weekly seperate lines were erected.

A Daily Mail once established on the Middle route would be succeeded, almost instantaneously, by the magnetic telegraph, which would enable us to have hourly advices from all the different towns and cities in the Union.

Nor is this all, a Daily Overland Mail would be the great harbinger—the incentive and chief corner stone upon which the great Pacific Railroad will be built—the greatest desideratum of the nineteenth century.

ENTERTAINMENT.—Eaves & Nye's Lyric and Dramatic Entertainment, to be given at the Forrest Theater, will come off on Saturday next, March 3d. All those wishing tickets can have them by calling at this office, before Thursday next, as all those not sold will be returned.

[For the NEWS.]

MR. EDITOR:

A certain Bill recently introduced into our Legislature, has created a deeper feeling in this community than you, perhaps, are aware of. I refer to the Bill to tax Bachelors of thirty years of age and upwards, ten dollars each, per annum, for the support of common schools. The introduction and support of that Bill, by its few friends in the Legislature would not of itself have created any sensation in the ranks of that ancient, if not, honorable fraternity, of which I claim to be an humble member, had not the warm sympathy of that venerable matron Mrs. Dobbins been so ardently enlisted in its favor, assisted by the approving smiles of the maidens throughout the country. These influences, Mr. Editor, are always irresistable, and with such a formidable array of outside support, I fear that during the coming tax-gathering season there will be a feeling in the pockets of the California Bachelors that will destroy that complacent cast of countenance, for which they have heretofore been so distinguished. And, as the enactment of such a law will doubtless take many Bachelors by surprise, I propose an amendment to the Bill, which, you will perceive, will not lessen the reverence which is to innure to the benefit of common schools, but will afford relief to whom relief is due—it is, to provide in the Bill, to exempt all Bachelors who will produce satisfactory proof to the collector, that during the year he has made proposals for a matrimonial alliance and been rejected; and to provide further that the lady rejecting the offer shall, for that year, pay the tax. It is too much to require us Bachelors to school all the children in the country just because we are Bachelors and cant help ourselves. I trust, Mr. Editor, that this proposed amendment will find its way into the councils of our State and into the consciences of our law makers, and that Mrs. Dobbins will offer no serious objections to the tacking on of said amendment.

Yours, BACHELOR.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—The Board of Supervisors for Yolo County, will meet at Cacheville on Tuesday, the 14th of March.

NOTARY PUBLIC.—Charles F. Reed, of this place, having received the appointment of Notary Public, is now ready to attend to all business in his line.

THE letters by the mail steamer, of the 20th, numbered 16,183. Those overland were 4,830, of which 192 were way letters.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE.—We call attention to the advertisement of Dr. J. R. Boyce, druggist, of Sacramento.—"Rowler's Infalliable Rheumatism medicine," is recommended as a valuable preparation for the permanent cure of all rheumatic complaints. It is prepared by Dr. Boyce, at Sacramento. Dr. D. L. Pickett is agent for this place.

NEWSPAPERS IN THE UNITED STATES.—There are three thousand three hundred and sixty-four newspapers in the United States and Territories, of which six hundred and thirteen are in New York, four hundred and nineteen in Pennsylvania, three hundred and eighty-two in Ohio, two hundred and twenty-one in Illinois, and two hundred and nineteen in Massachusetts, leaving one thousand, five hundred and ten for the rest of the States. It would be a curious piece of statistical information if we could discover how many persons reach each one of those three thousand, three hundred and sixty-four newspapers, also what amount of reliable matter is published, say in miles; how many editors, sub-editors, reporters, or penny-a-liners, contribute to them, the opinions expressabout them, and as a climax to information, how many subscribers to each newspapers pay their subscriptions promptly in advance.

A RUSH FOR THE DIGGINGS.—The Mountain Democrat says:

The rush for the new diggings in Western Utah has already commenced. Small companies, on foot and on horseback, leave our city daily for the promised land, with the most sanguine expectations, which we fear may not be realized. The accounts that reach us from the diggings scarcely justify persons moving over thus early. Provisions are scarce and high, accommodations scant and of an indifferent character, the valleys covered with snow and unfit for prospecting, water scarce and the weather too cold to work to advantage. The miners are idle at present, so we are informed, and but little can be done for a month or two,—not before the weather moderates and the snow melts. The mines cover a large extent of country, and the claims are but few, and until prospecting parties can prosecute their labors to advantage it is folly to commence them.

The same paper says that on Friday there were twenty passengers for Washoe by the pack mule train.

Arrival of the Overland Mail!

[By Telegraph to Malloy's Station, eighteen miles north of Springfield, Mo.—thence by the Overland Mail to Sacramento.]

From the Union's Telegraphic Report.

St. Louis, Jan. 31—5. p.m.

Republican Caucus at Washington.

At the Republican Caucus on Saturday, Jan. 28th, Sherman withdrew and Pennington, of New Jersey, was nominated.

Miscellaneous.

On Monday, resolutions were intoduced into the Virginia Legislature expressing a conviction that they had better rely on the constituted authorities than the agency of any assemblage which can have no power except to debate and advise. Therefore, the General Assembly will not now invite any conference with Commissioners appointed by other States.

A dispatch from Washington says: "Russell & Majors have stations and horses on the whole route between St. Joseph and Carson Nalley, and only need an organization to commence a pony Express. They propose to go through in eight days."

The New York Tribune correspondent says the Democrats of Kansas, at Washington, are urging a change in the western boundary so as to include Pike's Peak, which will render necessary a new election. They expect to make the State Democratic. They have proposed that the Senate amend the House bill as above. In the event of a refusal they have acquiesced to exclude Kansas for the present session.

The corvette Brooklyn, from Vera Cruz, touched at the Balize, Jan. 29th, with Minister McLane as passenger. At New Orleans he will await telegraphic instructions from Washington.

By advices from the City of Mexico to January 19th, Miramon was preparing an expedition against Caravajal. The clergy refused him funds for the Vera Cruz expedition.

Professor Joseph Addison Alexander and ex-Attorney General Henry D. Gilpin are dead.

On Monday night a grand banquet of National Democratic delegates from the eastern section of the State was held at the Astor House, New York. Wood, Bronson, Roosevelt and Sutherland spoke, and the best feeling prevailed.

The Paraguay Embassy have arrived at New York.

In New York on Sunday, a building in Cortland street, of the Ward Clothing Company, was destroyed by fire—loss $175,000, but insured. A building of Wynkoop, Hallenbeck & Co., jop printers, and Bonner's Ledger press room, on Fulton street, were destroyed. The loss of the former was seventy thousand dollars, and the latter thirty thousand—mostly insured.

Latest from Washington.

Pennington within one vote of an election.

In the House, on Tuesday, Jan. 31st, the following vote was had late in the afternoon:

FIRE IN MARYSVILLE.—The Express, of Feb. 22d, has the following account of a fire in Marysville on Monday night:

The property destroyed was a brick building belonging to Mr. McDermott, and occupied by Eckert & Johnston, as a livery stable, and by Thomas J. Taylor, as an office; a frame double tenement, occupied by Mrs. Hartshorn, dressmaker and milliner, and a colored family; and the residence of Henry Herns. Eckert & Johnston saved all their horses, buggies, carriages and harness, and Mrs. Hartshorn saved most of her stock. The loss is estimated at $5,000. It appears the fire originated in the back part of the house occupied by Mrs. Hartshorn. We learn that a candle was left burning in the room, near a curtain, and it is thought that, in all probability, the fire thus originated, communicating with the curtain; but nothing is definitely known in regard to the matter.

MINT STATISTICS.—During last week 6,768 ounces of gold bullion were deposited in the mint; 3,524 ounces of silver were purchased, and $240,000 in gold were coined.

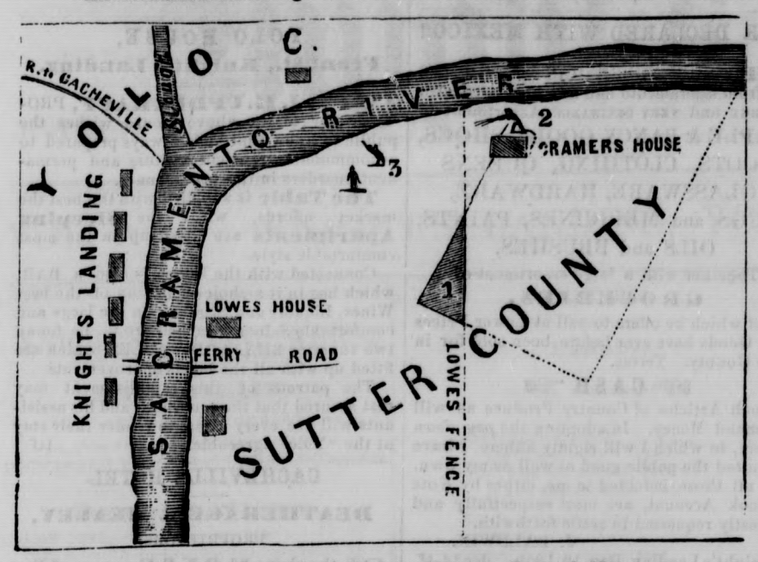
Examination of George Kramer for killing James B. Lowe.



No. 1.—Represents the Land in dispute between Lowe & Kramer.
No. 2.—Represents the position of Kramer coming from his house and shooting at Lowe; distance 68 yards.
No. 3.—Represents the place where Lowe was when shot, and Koon standing by him.

The examination of George Kramer, for the killing of James B. Lowe, on February 6th, one mile north of this place, in Sutter county, came off before Justice Doty, at Smith's Ferry, on Friday, the 10th, and continued until late in the evening; too late for the publication of that week. Mr. I. C. McQuaid, District Attorney for Sutter county, promised us the proceedings for publication in time for the next week, and on account of the inconvenience of the mail facilities we did not get them until last Monday.

We lay before our rearders a plan of the ranch and the position of the parties during the affray, which you will see by referring to the above. For the full account of the proceedings we are under obligations to Mr. McQuaid.

THE PEOPLE vs. GEO. KRAMER. } Before Justice Doty.

John Koon, sworn on the part of the people, says:—Went with Lowe on Monday last, 6th inst; set hands at work building fence along line between Lowe's land and where defendant lives; had a fence row cut out in December last; on coming to the place found defendant had stopped up the fence row by building brush fence across it; Lowe removed the brush fence so that the hands could drive through with the wagon; Lowe then sat down a little while, when we both started down the river, for home; got down on the trail, Lowe stoped and looked up the line of the fence, and remarked that it would come out about where he stood, he then turned and made a step forward towards home, when the rifle fired, and Lowe fell; I was close by his side when he was shot—immediately looked in the direction of the report of the gun, saw the smoke and saw Kramer, with the gun in his hand, run behind the house; I stooped and raised Lowe up, found he was dead, the ball having entered the back of the head; upon placing my hand on back of his head, when I raised him up, the brains issued out of the wound; the distanc from where Kramer shot, to where Low fell is 68 yards; we had not seen Kramer, nor spoke with him on that day, until he fired; Lowe could not have seen him at all.

Cross examined.—I am partner with Lowe in the ranch; we opened the fence to draw poles through; I had a rifle, and Lowe a shot-gun; I took my gun up for Mr. Sides to shoot deer with; never heard Lowe say he would wipe Kramer out or be wiped out. I might have said I would have the land or lie with Lowe; I dont know what I might have said; I was very much excited; I think I heard Lowe say, as we were going up, that if Kramer came out with his gun, as he did on Saturday, he would defend himself; dont know what he had his shot-gun loaded with. I apprehended no danger from Kramer on that day, before the shooting. Kramer, immediately after the shooting, ran up the river, made a stop once, and turned around with his gun in his hand; I spoke to Sides and said: hold Lowe, I beieve the Dutchman is going to shoot again; I Sprang and snatched my gun, partly cocked it, when it went off, discharging the contents into the air; did not shoot at the woman; did not see her.

The testimony of Sides and Smith was substantially the same as Koon's. The ballance of the testimony for the defendant was pricipally in relation to some old difficulties between Lowe and Kramer, also, to Lowe's general character for peace and quietude.

Emmons, for the defense, sworn, says:—He khows the parties, Lowe and Kramer, had difficulty in July last, also in November, about the land; was present one time, thinks in November, when Lowe came up to Kramer and said to him: "When I rented you this house I did not expect this difficulty with you." Kramer replied, "Humph," Lowe jumped up and said: "I will humph you," drew off his glove and slapped Kramer in the face, Kramer caught him by the throat and shoved him back, Lowe drew out his knife and struck at Kramer twice with it, when they separated.

Thos. Stewart, for defendant:—Heard defendant, on Friday, before the killing, say that Lowe had put him to great trouble—expected he would have to be troubled with him till he was put out of the way. Lowe's general character is good; never heard Lowe threaten violence.

Frederick Miller, sworn for defendant:—Always heard Lowe was a peaceable man; heard nothing against him; Kramer said first man came to tear down his fence he would shoot him—referred to Jim Lowe. Kramer said, Lowe, on Saturday, dared him to shoot, and he shot him through the fence.

A number of witnesses were called by defendant, who testified to various opinions as to deceased's propensities for quarreling, which testimony was conflicting and of but very little importance.

On the part of the State, Mr. Hopkins led in a few remarks, reciting various authorities, after which Mr. Montgomery, of Marysville, counsel for the prisoner, made an able effort; followed by Mr. I. C. McQuaid, District Attorney for Sutter county, who replied in a very elaborate and forcible argument; whereupon, Justice Doty held the prisoner to answer in the sum of two thousand dollars. We learn, up to the present time, Kramer has not given bail, and is committed to Yuba county jail.

The Twilight Star.

BY MATILDA.

The twilight star is in the sky,
Bright herald of the night,
O'erspreading all the darkling woods,
With its soft shields of light.
In bright and brighter beams it shines
As silent night draws nigh,
'Till like a sea of living light
It throbs against the sky.

Oh! this when life's bright day is o'er,
And death's dark night is near—
When from our heart-strings sad and low
Time's parting step we hear,
May faith's sweet light illume our path
Like your twilight star,
And lead us to that Eden shore
Where all the holy are.

A SHORT-METRE PRAYER.—We heard of an old Deacon, (says the Christain Witness,) who, on being asked by his pastor to close a meeting with a short prayer, replied, "I am very willing to pray, but don't like to be stinted." The minister mentioned below must have belonged to the same family, we judge, for he had a similar aversion to being stinted in his communion with God. The story has a good moral. The Rev. Mr. Derwell, a pious and curious old Methodist minister, went from Tennessee to Kentucky, in 1812, to visit his relative, the Hon. Wm. Bolton. The man was not a religious man, but was a gentleman, and invited the minister to have family worship every evening. While he was visiting there, Judge Cone and his wife, from Nashville, arrived there to pass the night, and Mr. Bolton, being a little embarassed, said to the old minister, as he brought out the Bible, that he had better be short, as the Judge was probably not accustomed to such things.

"Very well, very well," said he, and reading a single verse, he knelt down and prayed:

"Oh, Lord, we are very poor and needy creatures, and we know that Thou art able to supply all our wants, but Cousin William says that Judge Cone and his wife, from Nashville, are here, and are not used to family worship, and however needy we are, there is no time to spare in telling Thee our wants. Amen."

The Judge was taken all a-back, and so was Cousin William. They both pressed the old gentleman to conduct the services in his own way, which he did, to their great edification.

A CERTAIN official connected with the custon-house did not hesitate to avail himself of the advantages offered by his position. The master of a merchant vessel, having need of his good offices to reduce some heavy fine to a nominal one, sent him a bag of coffee. The servant placed it before his master. "What is this?"—"A bag of coffee, of which Captain A——— asks your acceptance."—"Good," replied his master; "leave it here, and go tell Captain A——— that I never take my coffee without sugar" The captain took the hint, and at once dispatched some sugar to sweeten the coffee.

A PEDAGOGUE had two pupils, Dick and Tom. To one he was very partial, and to the other very severe. One morning it happened that both were late, and were called to account for it. "You must have heard the bell, boys—why did you not come?"—"Please, sir," said his favorite, "I was dreamin' that I was going to Margate, and thought the schoolbell was the steamboat-bell that I was going in."—"Very well, sir," (glad of any pretext to excuse his favorite.) "And now, sir," turning to the other, "what have you to say?"—"Please, sir," said the puzzled boy, "I was waiting to see Tom off."

SOME of the Indians on Lake Superior have formed a Temperance Society. It was occasioned by the defection of a chief in whom they placed implicit confidence, who indulged a little too freely in the ardent, and while drunk spent a considerable amount of money intrusted to his keeping. The red men had an indignation meeting over it, and, after a most emphatic series of grunts, formed a self-protective association, based on fundamental principles—that is to say, the first Indian who got drunk was to be tied to a stump and whipped with twenty-five lashes.

A gentleman named Dunlop, being present at a party where one of the company had made several puns on the names of the persons present, remarked that he had never heard his name punned upon, and didn't believe it could be done.—"There is nothing more easy, sir," replied the punster. "Just lop off half the name, and it is don."

Brown is a married man now. A few days since, he thought of taking a trip to Paris. One of his friends, meeting him in the street, inquired, "Well, Brown, my boy, when are you off?" "To-morrow." "Going to take your wife with you?" "No, it is a voyage of pleasure."

"WHY do you always walk with a stick?" said Smith to Robinson, on meeting him in the streets; "except the infirm, I regard those who use walking-sticks as idlers, with nothing to do."—"Quite the reverse," replied Robinson. "I look upon them as active and industrious persons, who always have something in hand."
